Complains About Youths

Robert Salvador of Atlantic Avenue appeared before Selectmen once again to complain of youths parking and drinking illegally in front of his home near Black Rock Beach.

Salvador threatened to take the matter to court, as he feels that the problem is increasing and becoming a situation which police can't enforce. "It is a personal matter of health at this point," Salvador said, claiming that the noise from the crowds that assemble along the Cohasset/Hull seawall deprive him of his sleep and that he has had to turn to tranquilizers for relief.

Police Chief Randolph Feola was called to the meeting to comment on the ability to patrol the area effectively. "We've been locking them up for drinking," Feola said and cited several instances in which youths were brought to court for public drinking.

Salvador said that police enforcement hasn't been adequate enough and related an incident when drinking youths were bypassed and told only to move their parked cars. He was told later that Sgt. Richard Barrow, the officer on patrol, said the youths were over the town line in Hull and therefore out of his jurisdiction.

Chief Feola said, "Public drinking involves everybody. The younger people are so used to going to the beaches and drinking outside. We are doing the best we can." The problem at Black Rock Beach is not unique in town, he stressed, and enumerated other areas, especially in the Beechwood area, where he finds similar activities. He said also that the department would step up their patrol of the trouble areas.
